

This is the 'Get busy living III' in the works. This will be dedicated to intelligently innovative, loving and sharing solutions. None co-optive ideas and true grass root. With sane, critical, logical and none fallacious language and reasoning. New paradigms, that nor I or anybody else should try to 'predict' or 'dictate' because that will most likely lead to, for those awake -a well known 'programming', i.e. 'predictive programming', that we historically know by certainty -corrupts (most likely corrupted from the get go). It could perhaps be done in the realms of below double quote paraphrase (Buckminster and Einstein)

'never solve great predicaments with same means that created them. Invent with true novelty that not even your [inner] Master could predict'
